Kurzbeschreibung After a bad experience in her last job Quinn Morgan vows never to work for a man again. But due to unforeseen circumstances she is seconded to work for the CEO while his PA is off recovering from an accident. From the moment they meet Quinn realises that working for Maxwell Cordell is not going to be easy, consoling herself with knowledge that it is only going to be for a couple of months she pushes to the very back of her mind just how attractive she finds her boss and continues with her usual professionalism. Quinn has to accompany Maxwell to a meeting in London which requires an overnight stay. After a disturbing incident with a head of department Quinns sleep is disturbed, over the next weeks Maxwell keeps trying to talk to Quinn about their trip to London which she refuses to do thinking their conversation would have been about the attack. What Quinn does not realise is that Maxwell had slept with her that night, she believes the dream she had about her boss sharing her bed was just that a dream. Maxwell is both hurt and surprised by her off hand refusal to talk about their encounter not realising that she believed it to be a dream. A few weeks later they are away on another business trip to Paris when Maxwell tells her he has feelings for her and that once his PA has returned to work he would like to date her. Quinn is thrilled; over the weeks she has been working for him her feelings had grown and agrees that is what she would like. But the following morning she is in time to see another woman leaving his room feeling hurt and betrayed she waits until he leaves for his meeting then packs her bag intending to return home. There is just one problem Quinn is terrified of flying and when she boards the plane for home she collapses and is rushed to hospital. Maxwell is concerned when he is told his PA is in hospital, concern turns to fury when he discovers she was on a plane heading for home. When the doctor examining Quinn tells Maxwell she is pregnant he passes on the information to her, at first she laughs but when he insists she is and tells her the baby is his she realises why she has been dreaming about her boss.
