Emotional, Suspenseful Category RomanceVon Tina EGrace Solarez's 11-year-old daughter Marissa was killed in a drive-by shooting exactly one year ago from this night. Desperate to end the pain, Grace finds herself contemplating the taking of her own life. Before Grace attempts anything drastic, Fate intervenes and she finds herself pulling a kidnapped 5-year-old girl out of a car about to explode. She saves the girl's life, but leaves the scene before she can be asked any questions by the authorities. A week later, Jack Dugan stops at nothing to find the woman who saved his daughter Emma's life. He isn't certain if Grace was on the scene because she was a part of the kidnapping plot or if she was simply a very brave, heroic woman who happened to be in the right place at the right time. Either way, he owed her for saving Emma's life. This was an extremely well written category romance. In shorter books such as these, either the character development or the plot or the romance tends to suffer because of the constraining 250 pages given to the author to work with. Ms. Thayne worked well within the limits and none of the points of the book suffered. The character development was beyond excellent, the plot was engaging and suspenseful, and the relationship between the hero and heroine was superbly written. "Saving Grace" is a definite winner.

Until the night she saved Jack's little girl. Soon Grace began to care again about something about this sexy single dad and his daughter. But would it all disappear when she found out the truth about Jack Dugan?
